Twist Off Caps are a common container sealing method, usually used on glass or plastic bottles. This lid has a threaded structure that allows the user to open or close the container by rotating the lid. They are commonly used to package food, beverages, pharmaceuticals, cosmetics and other liquid or solid products.

Compared with traditional caps, Twist Off Caps have better sealing performance and can more effectively protect the products in the container from air, moisture or other external factors. Additionally, they are also easier to use, as the container can be opened or closed by simply twisting the lid without the need for additional tools or equipment.
