The global Utility Vehicle Rentals market size is predicted to grow from US$ 4412 million in 2025 to US$ 8054 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 9.0% from 2026 to 2032.

Utility Vehicle Rental is a business that provides rental services for various types of vehicles, typically including short-term or long-term rentals of passenger cars, commercial vehicles, and special-purpose vehicles (such as refrigerated trucks and construction vehicles). Customers can choose the appropriate vehicle type according to their needs without incurring the costs of purchase, maintenance, and upkeep. This type of service is suitable for individual users, corporate users, and specific industries (such as logistics and construction) with temporary or long-term vehicle usage needs. Through rental platforms, users can flexibly choose vehicles, optimize resource utilization, and reduce costs. The upstream of multi-purpose vehicle rental mainly involves vehicle manufacturers, car dealers, and repair and parts suppliers, providing vehicles of various brands and models. Downstream customers include corporate users, car rental companies, logistics companies, etc., and the market demand for multi-purpose vehicle rental continues to grow, especially with the acceleration of urbanization and the rise of the sharing economy. In the future, with increasingly stringent environmental regulations and the development of intelligent connected vehicles, electric multi-purpose vehicle rental will become an important direction for the industry, driving innovation and expansion in the fields of green travel and intelligentization.
