Abstracts

The report requires updating with new data and is sent in 48 hours after order is placed.

Vanilla planifolia is a tropical orchid, which is native to Mexico, and was originally cultivated by the Totonac people during Pre-Columbian times . These amazing flowers open only one day each year, and there is only one natural pollinator, a species of Melipone bee that's only found in the region it was originally grown . The fruit of the vanilla planifolia looks like long green beans, known as pods, and vanilla extract comes from the cured pods. Today, vanilla extract is made using a very time consuming and labor intensive process, involving hand pollination since it can only naturally thrive in one small region. Plus, it takes months to mature and cure the seedpods .

Vanilla extract is not only the world's most popular flavoring material, it's also in 50% of aromatic compounds and is the most widely used fragrance in perfumes.
