With a transparent methodology based on hundreds of bottom-up qualitative and quantitative market inputs, this study forecast offers a highly nuanced view of the current state and future trajectory in the global Venture Capital Management Software.

Some of the future market trends of Venture Capital Management Software are:

Artificial intelligence (AI) is inspiring a surge of investments, stabilizing global venture capital activity and bolstering US funding growth. AI and biotech startups continue to garner interest from investors across all stages, particularly as economic headwinds seem to weaken.

Corporate venture capital (CVC) activity has been steady in 2023, accounting for 21% of all funding in the first half of the year. CVC investors and CVC-funded deals remained stable in the second quarter of 2023.

Special purpose acquisition companies (SPACs) and sponsor-backed private investment in public equity (PIPE) deals have seen an uptick when the traditional publicly traded financing markets were less available. These transactions are cost-effective and fast to execute.

India, Korea, and Australia have seen prodigious investments, while China has seen a decline in VC funding due to economic sluggishness, global trade tensions, and tech and internet company regulations.

This report presents a comprehensive overview, market shares, and growth opportunities of Venture Capital Management Software market by product type, application, key players and key regions and countries.
