Vonoprazan fumarate is a novel potassium-competitive acid blocker (P-CAB) that selectively inhibits the potassium-binding site of the gastric parietal cell H?/K?-ATPase, providing rapid and sustained gastric acid suppression. It is primarily indicated for the treatment of gastroesophageal reflux disease, peptic ulcers, and Helicobacter pylori-related conditions, offering advantages such as fast onset, prolonged action, adaptability to interpatient gastric acid variation, and independence from acidic activation. Its production relies on the synthesis of the active pharmaceutical ingredient (API) using fine chemicals and intermediates, along with excipients and capsule shell suppliers, as well as pharmaceutical manufacturing equipment and analytical instrument providers, forming a complete support chain for research, production, and commercialization. In 2024, the global sales volume of vonoprazan fumarate reached 21.10 million boxes, with an average unit price of USD 37 per box.
