Wax crayons are solid drawing sticks made by blending color pigments with wax-based binders, most commonly paraffin wax. They are widely used for coloring, drawing, and writing, particularly by children and students due to their non-toxic, easy-to-handle, and clean nature.

This report divides wax crayons into ordinary crayons and environmentally friendly crayons based on their ingredients. Ordinary crayons contain petroleum-derived ingredients such as paraffin.

Environmentally friendly crayons refer to those that use soy wax, beeswax or natural plant pigments and are biodegradable (such as Honeysticks beeswax crayons).

Driven by environmental protection and safety factors, the market share of non-toxic and biodegradable crayons (such as soy wax and beeswax-based products) has increased year by year.

From a regional distribution perspective, the main regions of the crayon consumer market are located in the Asia-Pacific, North American and European markets. With the expansion of e-commerce channels, the Asia-Pacific region has continued to grow in recent years.
