Abstracts

The global Stemona Extract market size is predicted to grow from US$ 33.36 million in 2025 to US$ 49.77 million in 2032; it is expected to grow at a CAGR of 5.9% from 2026 to 2032.

In 2025, the global production of Stemona extract was approximately 620 tons, with an average selling price of about US$55 per kilogram. The production capacity in 2025 was 780 tons, with an average gross profit margin of approximately 20-30%. Stemona extract is an alkaloid active ingredient extracted from the dried roots of *Stemona sessilifolia*, *Stemona tuberosa*, and *Stemona japonica* plants. It is primarily used to moisten the lungs, relieve coughs, and kill insects and lice. Its main components are stemona alkaloids and tuberostemonine, which can inhibit the respiratory center, relax bronchial smooth muscle, and have antitussive and antiasthmatic effects, as well as inhibiting various pathogenic bacteria and parasites.

The upstream industry chain of Stemona extract mainly includes the cultivation of Stemona plants and the supply of raw materials. The quality of raw materials directly affects the quality of the extract. In the downstream industry chain, Stemona extract has a wide range of applications. It is mainly used in the pharmaceutical industry, especially in drugs for treating respiratory diseases, coughs, and excessive phlegm; it also has important applications in the health products industry, especially in health products with immune-regulating, anti-inflammatory, and antioxidant functions. In the cosmetics industry, it is used in skin care products for its anti-inflammatory, calming, and soothing effects.

Stemona extract, a traditional Chinese herbal extract, has been gaining prominence in the global market in recent years. Rich in active components such as alkaloids, flavonoids, and polysaccharides, Stemona extract possesses multiple functions including cough suppression, expectorant, anti-inflammatory, and antibacterial effects. It is widely used in pharmaceuticals, health products, cosmetics, and food industries. With increasing consumer demand for natural plant-based ingredients and health products, the market prospects for Stemona extract are very promising, particularly in the Asia-Pacific region and the European and American markets. China, as a major producer and exporter of Stemona, has driven the growth of Stemona extract exports through its abundant traditional Chinese medicine resources and technological advantages.

According to market research, the global market for Stemona extract will continue to grow, especially with further expansion of its applications in respiratory diseases and immune system regulation. As traditional Chinese medicine culture spreads globally, the awareness of Stemona extract in the international market is constantly increasing. Meanwhile, continuous technological advancements in extraction techniques have further improved the quality and efficacy of Stemona extract, thus meeting the needs of different consumer groups. However, the market also faces some challenges, including the stability of raw material supply, price fluctuations, and strict regulatory policies. Overall, Stemona extract, with its natural, green, and multi-functional characteristics, is expected to capture a larger market share in the coming years.
