Access Control as a Service Market Trends and Forecast

The future of the global access control as a service market looks attractive with opportunities in the commercial, manufacturing and industrial, government bodies, residential, transportation, healthcare, education, and utilities. The global access control as a service (ACaaS) market is expected to reach an estimated $2.6 billion by 2030 with a CAGR of 15.0% from 2024 to 2030. The major drivers for this market are increasing uses of cloud computing platforms and IoT technology, growing demand for cloud based hosted and managed services and rising adoption of electronic security products in access control as a services market.

Lucintel forecasts that managed service will remain the largest service type and it is also expected to witness the highest growth over the forecast period due to the increasing demand in organizations to secure data and as adding and deleting access rights and credentials.

Within the access control as a service market, public cloud will remain the largest segment by deployment type and private cloud is also expected to witness the highest growth over the forecast period due to growing demand from end user such as single organization, managed, and operated by the organization, a third party, or some combination of them.

North America will remain the largest region due to high adoption of advanced and IoT based cloud computing minimizing risk for a business or organization. APAC is expected to witness the highest growth over the forecast period supported by increasing uses of access control as service in commercial, manufacturing and industrial sectors
