Avascular Necrosis Market Insights

Lucintel forecasts that non-trauma will remain the larger segment over the forecast period due to its rising usage among various treatments related to alcohol intake and abnormalities related to metabolism of bones.

Within this market, hospital pharmacy is expected to witness the highest growth due to increasing number of hospitalized patients opting for non-invasive therapy and surgery to treat osteonecrosis.

North America will remain the largest region over the forecast period due to rising cases of avascular necrosis among individuals, increase in geriatric population, and presence of key players in the region.
