Lucintel, a leading global management consulting and market research firm, has conducted a competitive analysis of the industry and presents its findings in Global Human Vaccine Industry 2013-2018: Trend, Profit, and Forecast Analysis. North America dominates this industry. India and China are rapidly growing as vaccine production hubs with strong domestic demand.

Lucintel's report gives a brief overview of the industry challenges. The global human vaccine industry is currently growing at a double-digit rate although there are numerous challenges for the major players. Competitive rivalry is moderate to high in this industry, and the threat of new entrants is low due to high capital requirements and the comprehensive, rigorous approval process. In addition, these approval processes are a major challenge for the manufacturers due to their stringent rules. Developing vaccines for adult and pediatric diseases requires high research cost. Expiration of patents is another challenge faced by vaccine manufacturers.

Despite these challenges, the industry enjoys some strong drives, as the study highlights. The global economy is recovering after the recession, and increased incomes and lower cost of vaccines have helped more infants and children become immunized, especially in the Rest of the World and Asia Pacific regions. Various countries national immunization programs, effectively run by nongovernmental organizations such as WHO, UNICEF, and GAVI, are a key factor in fueling growth in the vaccine industry.
