According to a new market report published by Lucintel, the future of adhesives in the Spanish automotive industry looks good with opportunities in the passenger car and light commercial vehicles. Adhesives in the Spanish automotive industry are forecast to grow at a CAGR of 8.5% by value from 2016 to 2021. The major drivers of growth for this market are growth in the production of passenger car and light commercial vehicles, and increase in the demand for lightweight materials.

In this market, epoxy, polyurethane, and acrylic are the major adhesives by product type which are used in the automotive industry. On the basis of its comprehensive research, Lucintel forecasts that the polyurethane adhesives and epoxy adhesive segments are expected to show aboveaverage growth during the forecast period. Within the adhesives in Spanish automotive industry, the polyurethane adhesive segment is expected to remain as the largest market. Diverse applications of polyurethane adhesives in the automotive industry, such as bonding of windows in car body, carpet bonding, and bonding of headliners, door panels, dashboard, instrument panels, and seat upholstery system industry are expected to drive adhesive consumption, which would spur growth for this segment over the forecast period.

In this market, passenger car is largest segment by vehicle type and it is expected to remain as the largest segment due to increase in passenger car production, increasing use of lightweight materials.

Adhesive usage in non-structural application is expected to remain the largest segment due to its usage in bonding non-structural automotive parts made of lightweight materials. For business expansion, report suggests innovation and new product development to reduce curing time, improved cohesion strength and improved temperature resistance adhesives. The report further suggests the development of partnerships with customers to create win-win situations and development of low-cost solutions for customers.

Emerging trends, which have a direct impact on the dynamics of the industry, include increasing use of composites and lightweight materials in vehicles. Henkel AG & Co KGaA, 3M Company, Dow Chemical Company, Sika AG., and H.B. Fuller Co., are the major suppliers of adhesives in the Spanish automotive industry. Some companies are opting for merger & acquisition as strategic initiatives for driving growth.
