Vinyl flooring in the global construction companies profiled in this market include Shaw Industries, Tarkett, Mohwak Industries, Armstrong World Industries, and Gerflor are among the major suppliers of vinyl floorings.

On the basis of comprehensive research, Lucintel forecasts that the non-residential segment is expected to show above average growth during the forecast period.

Within the global vinyl flooring market, the non-residential segment is expected to be the largest segment. Increase in demand for luxury vinyl tiles in non-residential buildings, such as offices, hotels, educational institutions, and hospitals, is expected to drive the global vinyl flooring market in the future.

APAC is expected to remain the largest market during the forecast period mainly due to a large construction base and increasing penetration level of vinyl flooring in this region. The awareness regarding the attractive features of vinyl flooring, particularly its ease of installation, low maintenance, and variety of modern designs, are also expected to drive the demand for the vinyl flooring market in the future.

Some of the features of “Growth Opportunities for Vinyl Flooring in the Global Construction Market 2018-2023: Trends, Forecast, and Opportunity Analysis” include:

Market size estimates: Vinyl flooring in the global construction market size estimation in terms of value ($M) and volume (M Sqm.) shipment.
