Abstracts

The United Arab Emirates is a country in the southeast Arabian Peninsula on the Persian Gulf. The country has one of the most highly developed economies in Western Asia. The UAE economy is expected to reach US $448.6 billion by 2017, with a CAGR of 5.15% over the next five years. The UAE economy grew in 2011, regaining momentum after the global economic crisis. The country has achieved significant growth due to its economic reforms, export revenue, and inflow of foreign direct investment (FDI).

Lucintel, a leading global management consulting and market research firm, conducted a competitive analysis on the Political, Economic, Social, Technological, Legal, and Environmental (PESTLE) conditions of UAE and presents its findings in "PESTLE Analysis of UAE 2012." This study provides a concise analysis of the prospects for doing business in the UAE.

The UAE was impacted by the 2008-2009 economic recession, largely through a decline in exports. Infrastructure-related mega projects were put on hold, and even tourism was affected. UAE is facing growing unemployment due to its mismatch of job opportunities and skilled workers required. There is high unemployment rate, which witnessing an increasing trend.

Lucintel analyzes the main growth drivers of the country. The UAE is a politically stable country with strong political reforms. Further, the government is focusing on the overall development of the country. Economic reform and market-oriented policies have boosted economic growth in the UAE over the last decade. Increasing middle-class, liberalization of the hydrocarbon sector, and a strong trade sector have propelled the country's economic growth.

The study provides up-to-date information on the economic upheavals, social dynamics, political instability, industrial development, technological advancements, and market entry strategy for doing business in the UAE.
