Abstracts

Cationic starch is a modified starch. Cationic starch is mainly used as a wet end starch. Although natural starch can be used as the wet end starch, cationic starch is more preferred. Because cationic starch is positively charged, they are easily attracted by negatively charged cellulose fibers and fillers. As a result, fiber-fiber and fiber-filler adhesion increase. Therefore, the retention of fine particles and fillers is improved and the paper strength is also increased.

Cationic starch can improve paper strength, drainage, water retention, improve paper quality; reduce dust removal, lint and increase size; better control of papermaking process, thereby reducing paper web breakage, improving paper machine performance and productivity. Cationic starch also allows for the use of more fillers and more recycled fibers, thus reducing costs. As a surface sizing agent, cationic starch improves stiffness, opacity, print quality and brightness.

This report elaborates the market size, market characteristics, and market growth of the Cationic Starch industry, and breaks down according to the type, application, and consumption area of Cationic Starch. The report also conducted a PESTEL analysis of the industry to study the main influencing factors and entry barriers of the industry.

In Chapter 3.4 of the report, the impact of the COVID-19 outbreak on the industry was fully assessed. Fully risk assessment and industry recommendations were made for Cationic Starch in a special period. This chapter also compares the markets of Pre COVID-19 and Post COVID-19.

In addition, chapters 8-12 consider the impact of COVID-19 on the regional economy.
