Abstracts

Swabbing a cheek for human DNA or RNA is one of the most fundamental collection methods in the field of genetics. Sterile swabs come in many different shapes and sizes. There are three of the most widely-used types in the field today. Cotton is a material that has been widely used in the field of DNA sampling, be it forensics or human genetics. While cotton swabs are commonly used for buccal cell collections, foam swabs are most ideal for saliva collection. Flocked swabs have been adopted into the field of genetics due to the superior nature of their polyester single fibers. Providing a unique alternative to the cotton or foam, these flocked fibers are able to collect, retain, and elute the sample, even when cell counts are limited.

This report elaborates the market size, market characteristics, and market growth of the DNA Sampling Swab industry, and breaks down according to the type, application, and consumption area of DNA Sampling Swab. The report also conducted a PESTEL analysis of the industry to study the main influencing factors and entry barriers of the industry.

In Chapter 3.4 of the report, the impact of the COVID-19 outbreak on the industry was fully assessed. Fully risk assessment and industry recommendations were made for DNA Sampling Swab in a special period. This chapter also compares the markets of Pre COVID-19 and Post COVID-19.
