Abstracts

The fiber converter is a simple networking device that makes it possible to connect two dissimilar media types such as twisted pair with fiber optic cabling. They were introduced to the industry in the 1990s, and are important in interconnecting fiber optic cabling-based systems with existing copper-based, structured cabling systems. They are also used in metropolitan area network (MAN) access and data transport services to enterprise customers.

This report elaborates the market size, market characteristics, and market growth of the Fiber Converter industry, and breaks down according to the type, application, and consumption area of Fiber Converter. The report also conducted a PESTEL analysis of the industry to study the main influencing factors and entry barriers of the industry.
