Abstracts

Glacial Acetic Acid is the kind of Acetic acid that contains a very low amount of water (less than 1%). The reason it's called glacial is because it solidifies into solid acetic acid crystals just cooler than room temperature at 16.7 °C, which ice. Removing the water from acetic acid lowers its melting point by 0.2 °C. Glacial Acetic Acid may be prepared by dripping acetic acid solution over a 'stalactite' of solid acetic acid (which could be considered to be frozen). Like a water glacier contains purified water, even if it's floating in the salty sea, pure acetic acid sticks to the glacial acetic acid, while impurities run off with the liquid.

This report elaborates the market size, market characteristics, and market growth of the Glacial Acetic Acid industry, and breaks down according to the type, application, and consumption area of Glacial Acetic Acid. The report also conducted a PESTEL analysis of the industry to study the main influencing factors and entry barriers of the industry.

In Chapter 3.4 of the report, the impact of the COVID-19 outbreak on the industry was fully assessed. Fully risk assessment and industry recommendations were made for Glacial Acetic Acid in a special period. This chapter also compares the markets of Pre COVID-19 and Post COVID-19.
