Abstracts

In mining, in the food industry, in water treatment—liquid filters are used in a multitude of applications. Given the increasing shortage of water, they continue to gain in importance. The specific requirements placed on the filters in the respective uses are just as diverse as the applications themselves. Separating contaminants ranging from pebbles to grains of sand to microscopic particles, the filter has to be optimally adjusted to the specific particle size. Filter media are the heart of any filtration plant. They determine which particle size can be deposited and whether the filter is able to achieve the required efficiency. These filter media therefore have to flexibly adapt to the specific requirements of the respective application. In some applications they have to be particularly thin and robust to be able to withstand pressure affecting them during filtration.

This report elaborates the market size, market characteristics, and market growth of the Liquid Filtration Media industry, and breaks down according to the type, application, and consumption area of Liquid Filtration Media. The report also conducted a PESTEL analysis of the industry to study the main influencing factors and entry barriers of the industry.

In Chapter 3.4 of the report, the impact of the COVID-19 outbreak on the industry was fully assessed. Fully risk assessment and industry recommendations were made for Liquid Filtration Media in a special period. This chapter also compares the markets of Pre COVID-19 and Post COVID-19.

In addition, chapters 8-12 consider the impact of COVID-19 on the regional economy.
