Abstracts

Mustard is a mustard-colored thick substance with a strong and distinct taste. It is prepared by mixing the seeds of mustard vegetables with water, vinegar or alcohol. It is also added with spices or other additives to enhance the fragrance or enhance the color. Such as adding turmeric (increasing color and aroma). Three types of seeds of mustard vegetables, including white or yellow mustard seeds, brown mustard seeds or Indian mustard, and black mustard seeds can be used to make mustard. Strong mustard sauce will cause the mouth and respiratory tract to be uncomfortable and irritating.
