Abstracts

Clinical trials used by children to study and develop drugs or new drugs are called pediatric clinical trials. Most clinical trials are conducted in adults and very rare clinical trials, including children. To increase the level of participation of children in clinical trials, the United States has developed a regulatory and health strategy that focuses on the overall market for drugs when incorporated into pediatric clinical trials. According to the World Bank Group, approximately 26% of the world's population includes pediatrics (children between the ages of 0-14), rather than 10 times more clinical trials for adults than pediatrics. Because of the lack of pediatric clinical trials, ethical issues, and the infrastructure of pediatric diseases are relatively lower than those found in adults, pharmaceutical companies are paying more attention to drug development in adults. This report elaborates the market size, market characteristics, and market growth of the Pediatric Clinical Trials industry, and breaks down according to the type, application, and consumption area of Pediatric Clinical Trials. The report also conducted a PESTEL analysis of the industry to study the main influencing factors and entry barriers of the industry.

In Chapter 3.4 of the report, the impact of the COVID-19 outbreak on the industry was fully assessed. Fully risk assessment and industry recommendations were made for Pediatric Clinical Trials in a special period. This chapter also compares the markets of Pre COVID-19 and Post COVID-19.
