Abstracts

Heparin, also known as unfractionated heparin (UFH), is medication which is used as an anticoagulant (blood thinner). Specifically it is used to treat and prevent deep vein thrombosis, pulmonary embolism, and arterial thromboembolism. It is also used in the treatment of heart attacks and unstable angina.[3] It is given by injection into a vein. Other uses include inside test tubes and kidney dialysis machines. Common side effects include bleeding, pain at the injection site, and low blood platelets. Serious side effects include heparin induced thrombocytopenia. Greater care is needed in those with poor kidney function. Heparin appears to be relatively safe for use during pregnancy and breastfeeding. Heparin is a naturally occurring glycosaminoglycan.

This report elaborates the market size, market characteristics, and market growth of the Sodium Heparin industry, and breaks down according to the type, application, and consumption area of Sodium Heparin. The report also conducted a PESTEL analysis of the industry to study the main influencing factors and entry barriers of the industry.
