ADS-B is an Automatic Dependent Surveillance–Broadcast system, an integral part for air traffic control. The ADS-B broadcasts important information such as aircraft velocity, position, and altitude at a set time intervals. The ADS-B functions by using a transponder to send accurate details of position to air traffic controllers. The ADS-B works by determining its position using GPS which is then broadcasted by transponder at intervals. The information received at stations is taken by air controllers for precise tracking of the aircraft. The ADS-B offers much advanced features such as enhanced precision in the sky coupled with clear information exchange.
