Abstracts

When high-definition televisions reached the marketplace, they were considered a luxury. But as costs came down and consumer adoption rose, they became the norm. Now, if you stream a standard-definition video online, you're likely to rub your eyes and wonder if it's just a blurry image. Viewers want clearer pictures. And for the insurance industry, high-resolution aerial images from airplanes and drones are opening a new range of possibilities not attainable with lower-res satellite imagery and ground surveys.

For properties of higher value, a surveyor or loss control professional might be sent to the property to conduct a survey. For properties of lower value, some insurers have more recently begun to rely on public records data, trusting that municipal tax assessors have accurately captured basic attributes of the structure.

Based on the Aerial Imaging in Insurance Service market development status, competitive landscape and development model in different regions of the world, this report is dedicated to providing niche markets, potential risks and comprehensive competitive strategy analysis in different fields. From the competitive advantages of different types of products and services, the development opportunities and consumption characteristics and structure analysis of the downstream application fields are all analyzed in detail. To Boost Growth during the epidemic era, this report analyzes in detail for the potential risks and opportunities which can be focused on.

In Chapter 2.4 of the report, we share our perspectives for the impact of COVID-19 from the long and short term.
