Abstracts

A cigar is a roll of tobacco wrapped in leaf tobacco or in a substance that contains tobacco. Most cigars are combustible tobacco products. They vary in size—from smaller cigars, such as little filtered cigars or cigarillos, to larger ones, such as large so-called premium cigars.

Cigars have been seen as a symbol of success and luxury. Hence, cigars and cigarillos are often smoked to celebrate special occasions. Moreover, manufacturers are cigars and cigarillos with better flavors to hide the harsh taste of tobacco. The smoking trend has also become popular among young adults.
