Abstracts

Corporate credit cards are a distinct group within the greater credit card universe, separate from both personal and even the best small business credit cards. Companies may provide their employees with corporate cards for the payment of approved, business-related expenses, most often travel-related. Usually issued in the company's name, corporate cards also display the name of the individual employee cardholder.

Unlike personal and small business cards, corporate credit cards are offered by only a few issuers. Corporate credit card accounts are generally established by businesses using a banking relationship or via a deal negotiated directly with a card issuer. In developing such a relationship, the company's credit is considered, just as an individual's credit is considered when applying for a consumer credit card.

The report combines extensive quantitative analysis and exhaustive qualitative analysis, ranges from a macro overview of the total market size, industry chain, and market dynamics to micro details of segment markets by type, application and region, and, as a result, provides a holistic view of, as well as a deep insight into the Corporate Card market covering all its essential aspects.
