Abstracts

In general, a person's credit report contains accurate information. Some information expires after a specified amount of time. Negative data can stay in a person's credit history for up to seven years. Information about bankruptcies remains for ten years. A credit repair company cannot remove these records or establish a new credit identity for an individual.

Consumers should follow procedures established by credit reporting companies and may desire to hire an attorney, or do it themselves when attempting to change credit records. A credit repair service (or consumers themselves) can research records for errors in billing or credit reporting to clear or delete incorrect information and repair credit in that manner but neither can remove negative data from the file if it is accurate.

The report combines extensive quantitative analysis and exhaustive qualitative analysis, ranges from a macro overview of the total market size, industry chain, and market dynamics to micro details of segment markets by type, application and region, and, as a result, provides a holistic view of, as well as a deep insight into the Credit Repair Services market covering all its essential aspects.

For the competitive landscape, the report also introduces players in the industry from the perspective of the market share, concentration ratio, etc., and describes the leading companies in detail, with which the readers can get a better idea of their competitors and acquire an in-depth understanding of the competitive situation.
