Abstracts

The foie gras is the fatty liver that is obtained from wading birds (geese and ducks usually) subjected to forced feeding. Force feeding is a process whereby a metal funnel filled with corn is regularly and painfully forced down the throat of the farmed birds. It is otherwise known as the 'gavage process'. As a result, the size of the liver of these animals rapidly increases - reaching up to ten times the standard size, and acquiring a yellow-coloured, rounded and pasty consistency

The report combines extensive quantitative analysis and exhaustive qualitative analysis, ranges from a macro overview of the total market size, industry chain, and market dynamics to micro details of segment markets by type, application and region, and, as a result, provides a holistic view of, as well as a deep insight into the Foie Gras market covering all its essential aspects.
