Abstracts

Liquid chromatography is a fundamental separation technique in the life sciences and related fields of chemistry. Unlike gas chromatography, which is unsuitable for nonvolatile and thermally fragile molecules, liquid chromatography can safely separate a very wide range of organic compounds, from small-molecule drug metabolites to peptides and proteins. LCMS stands for Liquid Chromatography/Mass Spectrometry. It refers to the combination of liquid chromatographic separation with mass spectrometric detection.

Liquid Chromatography Mass Spectrometry (LC/MS) is an analytical chemistry laboratory technique for identification, quantitation and mass analysis of materials. This technique consents for the structural interpretation of unknown molecules through fragmentation. Similar to HPLC, Liquid Chromatography Mass Spectrometry utilizes a compound's intrinsic affinity for both a "mobile phase" (typically a buffered solvent) and a "stationary phase" (porous solid support with specialized coating).

Based on the LCMS market development status, competitive landscape and development model in different regions of the world, this report is dedicated to providing niche markets, potential risks and comprehensive competitive strategy analysis in different fields. From the competitive advantages of different types of products and services, the development opportunities and consumption characteristics and structure analysis of the downstream application fields are all analyzed in detail. To Boost Growth during the epidemic era, this report analyzes in detail for the potential risks and opportunities which can be focused on.

In Chapter 2.4 of the report, we share our perspectives for the impact of COVID-19 from the long and short term.

In chapter 3.4, we provide the influence of the crisis on the industry chain, especially for marketing channels.

In chapters 8-13, we update the timely industry economic revitalization plan of the country-wise government.
