Abstracts

Memory foam consists mainly of polyurethane as well as additional chemicals increasing its viscosity and density. It is often referred to as 'viscoelastic' polyurethane foam, or low-resilience polyurethane foam (LRPU). The foam bubbles or 'cells' are open, effectively creating a matrix through which air can move. Higher-density memory foam softens in reaction to body heat, allowing it to mold to a warm body in a few minutes. Newer foams may recover more quickly to their original shape. Based on the Memory Foam Mattress & Pillow market development status, competitive landscape and development model in different regions of the world, this report is dedicated to providing niche markets, potential risks and comprehensive competitive strategy analysis in different fields. From the competitive advantages of different types of products and services, the development opportunities and consumption characteristics and structure analysis of the downstream application fields are all analyzed in detail.
