Abstracts

If properly designed, constructed and maintained, reinforced or pre-stressed concrete structures are generally very durable. However, for structures in aggressive environment, corrosion of steel can be significant problem. Examples of structures that may be particularly at risk include marine structures, bridges subjected to de-icing salts and industrial buildings. In the last decade, there has been a considerable increase in interest in the use of non-metallic reinforcement to cope with this corrosion problem at many institution, advanced composite reinforcing materials have been developed, typically consisting of align continuous fibers embedded in resin and shaped to form beams and slabs, grid shape structures.

Based on the Non-Metallic Concrete Fiber market development status, competitive landscape and development model in different regions of the world, this report is dedicated to providing niche markets, potential risks and comprehensive competitive strategy analysis in different fields. From the competitive advantages of different types of products and services, the development opportunities and consumption characteristics and structure analysis of the downstream application fields are all analyzed in detail. To Boost Growth during the epidemic era, this report analyzes in detail for the potential risks and opportunities which can be focused on.
