Abstracts

Perfluoroelastomers (FFKM) are the elastomeric form of poly(tetrafluoro ethylene) or PTFE. These elastomers have a fully fluorinated backbone. They are copolymers of tetrafluoroethylene and a perfluorinated ether such as perfluoromethylvinylether (PMVE). Thus, the backbone includes oxygen atoms that are part of the ether groups which provide elasticity. Depending on the type of the ether (marked by the length of the side chain), the fluorine content varies. To vulcanize FFKM, small amounts of a cross-linkable monomer (CSM) are introduced. These are typically cyano-functional vinyl ethers. FFKMs (by ASTM 1418 standard) (equivalent to FFPMs by ISO/DIN 1629 standard) are perfluoroelastomeric compounds containing an even higher amount of fluorine than FKM fluoroelastomers. Perfluoroelastomer (FFKM) offer the highest operating temperature range, the most comprehensive chemical compatibility and the lowest off-gassing and extractable levels of any rubber material. They are capable of service temperatures up to 327°C, and are resistant to more than 1,800 chemical substances.

Based on the Perfluoroelastomer (FFKM) market development status, competitive landscape and development model in different regions of the world, this report is dedicated to providing niche markets, potential risks and comprehensive competitive strategy analysis in different fields. From the competitive advantages of different types of products and services, the development opportunities and consumption characteristics and structure analysis of the downstream application fields are all analyzed in detail. To Boost Growth during the epidemic era, this report analyzes in detail for the potential risks and opportunities which can be focused on.
