Abstracts

Supply Chain and Logistics for B2B is a service that involves a one-time transaction or multiple business transactions between two enterprises, rather than an enterprise that directly delivers goods to end users (that is, customers). Delivery is usually subject to strict time constraints, because the company's inventory level will soon improve. Compared with business-to-customer transactions, the amount of goods involved in these same deliveries is often much larger, so detailed logistics plans need to be worked out to determine the most cost-effective transportation method.

The report combines extensive quantitative analysis and exhaustive qualitative analysis, ranges from a macro overview of the total market size, industry chain, and market dynamics to micro details of segment markets by type, application and region, and, as a result, provides a holistic view of, as well as a deep insight into the Supply Chain and Logistics for B2B market covering all its essential aspects.
