Abstracts

Velcro is a kind of fiber fastening, and the invention company is 'Vickro'. It is usually composed of two fabrics, one surface covered with a ring structure and the other surface covered with a hook structure. When the two fabrics are pressed tightly, the hooks are combined with the loops to form a temporarily secured state. If you want to separate the two, just force them apart. In fact, the first velcro was pure cotton, but it was changed to nylon because it was not practical afterwards.
