Abstracts

Coffee plants produce red cherries which contain two halves of a bean. The red cherries are harvested and the outer layer of the red cherry is removed leaving two halves or two whole beans. Whole in this sense indicates that the two halves have not been ground. Whole bean coffee is the recommended state that coffee should be in when purchased to guarantee freshness. However, because it requires grinding before brewing, some consumer opt for a more convenient option and purchase the beans pre-ground trading convenience for a small but notable decrease in flavor.

Based on the Whole Bean Coffee market development status, competitive landscape and development model in different regions of the world, this report is dedicated to providing niche markets, potential risks and comprehensive competitive strategy analysis in different fields. From the competitive advantages of different types of products and services, the development opportunities and consumption characteristics and structure analysis of the downstream application fields are all analyzed in detail. To Boost Growth during the epidemic era, this report analyzes in detail for the potential risks and opportunities which can be focused on.

In Chapter 2.4 of the report, we share our perspectives for the impact of COVID-19 from the long and short term.
