KEY HIGHLIGHTS

Reduced average sell rates led airfreight service revenue to decline; however, it was partially offset by growth in airfreight tonnage

The airfreight services segment offers two services: airfreight consolidation and airfreight forwarding. The segment's revenue declined at rate of -10.5% from US$2,740.6m in 2015 to US$2,453.3m in 2016 largely due to low average rate in response to competitive market conditions. Similarly, the net revenue of the segment declined with a rate of -6.9% in 2016, from US$752.9 in 2015 to US$701.2 in 2016. This was primarily due to a 12.0% decrease in net revenue per kilo, which declined because of competitive market conditions and rapid changes in carrier pricing caused by sporadic increase in demand.

Competitive market conditions resulted in net revenue per container to decrease, leading to a decline in the overall ocean freight and ocean services' revenue

The ocean freight and ocean services business segment offers three basic services: ocean freight consolidation, direct ocean forwarding, and order management. Segmental revenue declined at rate of -12.6% from US$2,194.0m in 2015 to US$1,917.5m in 2016. This is primarily due to the reduction in average sell rates to customer in response to competitive market conditions and low available buy rates from carriers. The decline in segmental revenue was partially offset by 3.0% increase in volume. Ocean freight and ocean services net revenue also decreased at rate of -0.9% from US$545.0m in 2015 to US$538.8m in 2016.

Growth in the volume of road freight supported the segment's revenue

Customs brokerage and other services provide customs clearance services for the majority of shipments that the company handles as a freight forwarder. This segment's revenue increased at rate of 2.7% from US$1,682.0m in 2015 to US$1,727.2m in 2016. This is attributed to the increase in volume from existing and new freight road customers. The segment's net revenue also increased at rate 3.8%, from US$889.9m in 2015 to US$924.1m in 2016, primarily due to higher volumes from existing and new customers in road freight. This growth is further supported by low import service costs.
