SYNOPSIS

KEY HIGHLIGHTS

The publishing market consists of books, newspaper and magazines segments.

The global publishing market had total revenues of $261.2bn in 2017, representing a compound annual rate of change (CARC) of -0.4% between 2013 and 2017.

The books segment was the market's most lucrative in 2017, with total revenues of $121bn, equivalent to 46.3% of the market's overall value.

This market will remain subdued as social media and the prevalence of mobile devices continue to act as a disruptive force in the newspapers segment of the market. What's more, magazines will continue to struggle as the availability of substitutes, particularly online content, continues to grow.

Some publishers, most evidently the so-called 'Big Five', publish all kinds of books, from autobiographies to academic works. Others specialize in certain fields such as reference books or academic works. Media conglomerates are heavily involved in newspaper and magazine publishing.

Printers have traditionally focused on printing physical books but ebooks are assuming greater importance. There is some forward integration at this stage with large newspaper and magazine publishers having printing operations
