KEY HIGHLIGHTS

Robust presence of various brands enabling improvements in gross bookings

The company leverages its strong Booking.com presence, which is the most significant brand. Booking.com included more than 1,115,000 properties on its website as of December 31, 2016, as compared to over 852,000 properties as of December 31, 2015.

Vacation rental properties increased from 390,000 in 2015 to 568,000 vacation rental properties in 2016. The company operates other brands such as Priceline.com, Agoda.com, KAYAK, OpenTable and RentalCar.com. The company diversified its revenue streams by providing integrated services leveraging these brands. The company realised its plan to mitigate risks of volatility in cash inflow. As a result of various brands and wide operational network, the company is able to improve its gross bookings, which is an important operational metric for the company

Declining performance of the Merchant segment affects the company's competitive position

The company posted a weak performance from its Merchant segment which is a cause of concern. For instance, the Merchant segment revenues decreased by 1.7% from US$2,082.9 million in 2015 to US$2,048.0 million in 2016. This was primarily due the revenue decline from priceline.com's Name Your Own Price reservation services, which was discontinued on September 1, 2016. Also, the company posted a decrease in airline tickets from 7.7 million in 2015 to 7.3 million in 2016, reflecting a decline of 5.2%. This was due to a decline in priceline.com's retail airline ticket reservations and the discontinuation of priceline.com's Name Your Own Price airline ticket reservation offering.

New services to fuel the company's growth

The company has been launching new services to drive growth and profitability. For instance, in December 2016, the company launched Road Deals, which enables app users to set hotel preferences based on budget and star level, receive hotel recommendations, and book them. Also, in November 2016, Booking.com launched its new Content API for accommodation channel managers, content providers and property management companies. These new features provide free access for providers to instantly send all necessary information to establish and maintain multiple listings on Booking.com. This will also allow them to post property photos and information about their facilities and policies, through a direct connection, significantly reducing the time to upload content. Such services will expand the revenue stream of the company.
