Abstracts

The global Customer experience management Market size to grow from USD 9.5 Billion in 2021 to USD 16.9 Billion by 2026, at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 12.3% during the forecast period. The major driving factors for the market include increasing need to improve customer engagement and reduce customer churn rates, need for better understanding customers, and use of customer-related scores to plan better customer engagement strategy.

The services to record a higher growth rate during the forecast period

In the customer experience management market by component, the services is expected to record a higher growth rate during the forecast period. The overall services segment has a major influence on the customer experience management market's growth. These services assist end users in reducing overall costs, increasing overall revenues, and improving business performance. With the help of these services, organizations can track, evaluate, and analyze the requirements of their business to make better-informed decisions.

Large Enterprises are expected to hold a larger market share during the forecast period

By Organisation size, large enterprises are expected to hold the largest market size.

Large enterprises deploy CEM solutions to enhance their CE and satisfaction. Large enterprises encompass distributed data related to customers scattered across different departments and are, hence, opting for cloud-based CEM solutions to gain valuable insights from this data. The adoption of CEM solutions helps large enterprises enhance customer interaction and loyalty. Large enterprises are keen on investing in new and latest technologies such as artificial intelligence (AI), big data, and machine learning to automate the customer engagement process.

Cloud Deployment is expected to have a higher growth rate during the forecast period

By Deployment Mode, cloud is expected to have a higher growth rate. Cloud-based CE solutions are preferred over traditional systems as they are effective and compatible in addressing the rising level of customer expectations. Besides reducing costs associated with upgrading and updating CE solutions, cloud deployments also help organizations integrate technologies to provide a better CE to their customers.

APAC to have a higher growth rate during the forecast period

By region, APAC to grow at the highest CAGR during the forecast period. The enormous population in the region has led to an extensive pool of subscriber base for companies. The increasing internet penetration and per-user online consumption have led organizations to enhance their offerings in the customer experience management market through digital touchpoints such as social media, websites, emails, virtual assistants, and call centers.

By Company Type: Tier 1 – 62%, Tier 2 – 23%, and Tier 3 – 15%

By Designation: C-level – 38%, Directors – 30% and Others – 32%

By Region: North America –40%, Europe –15%, APAC – 35%, Middle East and Africa- 5% and Latin America- 5%

About

CEM is garnering increasing popularity mainly driven by the application of tools that are employed for analyzing customer feedback from various touch points such as company websites, branch, web, mobile, and social media.

CEM, as a concept, is gaining widespread adoption since it enables companies to serve customers efficiently, thereby, creating retention, reducing churn, and improving competitive abilities. Earlier, several companies had begun to invest heavily on solutions that optimize interactions from the customer's perspective, and thereby, enhance customer loyalty. Growth of communication media majorly affects customer expectations and behavior, ultimately impacting end user experiences understand these experiences and drive the appropriate insight from Voice of the Customer (VOC), companies use analytical tools such as Enterprise Feedback Management (EFM) software, text analytics, web analytics, speech analytics, and other analytics.

The usage of mobile and social media touch points is increasing rapidly for sharing views and ideas. In order to get globally connected, companies must frequently monitor these touch points and follow up with their customers by understanding their needs and wants for improving customer loyalty and experience. In the competitive world, leading companies will be focusing on customer centric approach rather than company centric approach. Towards this, enterprises will be adopting newer ways to connect customers with organization for regular feedback.

The report focuses on the latest trends and advancements in customer experience solutions that provide strategies, process models, and Information Technology (IT) to design, manage, and optimize the end-to-end customer experience process. The report also includes market analysis and forecasts across various touch points, types of analytical tools, vertical segments, size of the organization and geographical regions.

The report also focuses on CEM for Telco providers by taking into consideration aspects of Service Quality Management (SQM), Service Level Agreement (SLA) monitoring, service monitoring, fault management, and performance management with respect to network planning and network management. The Telco CEM market is segmented into five geographical regions including North America, Europe, Asia-Pacific, Middle East and Africa, and Latin America.
