The global Data Warehouse as a Service (DWaaS) market size is expected to grow at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 22.3% during the forecast period, to reach USD 12.9 billion by 2026 from USD 4.7 billion in 2021. Key factors that are expected to drive the growth of the market are the increasing role of business intelligence and data analytics in enterprise management, growing dependence on data-driven decision-making to improve business performance, and requirement of regulatory governance and security.

The COVID-19 Impact on the global data warehouse as a service market

The recent economic slowdown with the impact of COVID-19 emphasizes the need for alternate business systems. It has become important for businesses to embrace cloud computing and migrate to cloud data warehouses. This will help organizations to have a stable business condition in the short term while targeting continued growth and expansion in the long run. Organizations across different verticals are leveraging data warehouse services due to various advantages including higher availability, low latency, scalability, and enterprise-grade security.

Operational data storage segment to grow at a higher CAGR during the forecast period

The DWaaS market is segmented by deployment type into public and private cloud. The public cloud segment account for a higher share of the DWaaS market during the forecast period due to increasing investments in mobility, collaboration and other remote working technology and infrastructure. While the private cloud model is gaining popularity in organizations to overcome security and data privacy challenges.

Healthcare and life sciences vertical to grow at a higher CAGR during the forecast period.

Healthcare and life sciences is one of the fastest-growing verticals as the industry is undergoing extensive development, with advancements in technologies, thereby enhancing the overall industry vertical. The quality of information and the interest toward quality medicinal administrations have turned out to be progressively imperative. Initially, owing to data complexities and a variety of medical cum clinical data, the adoption of DWaaS solutions in the healthcare sector was comparatively slow. However, over the past years, the increase in the usage of DWaaS solutions has proved to be handy in administrative and clinical areas. The vast amounts of data generated over the years have been used in a variety of areas, right from enhancing patient health to pharmaceuticals testing.
