Abstracts

The global Smart Shelves market size is expected to grow from an estimated value of USD 3.0 billion in 2022 to USD 8.3 billion by 2027, at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 22.4% from 2022 to 2027. Some of the factors that are driving the market growth includes Use of automation and intelligence for better smart shopping. However, Shifting of customers to the online retail store is expected to hinder the market growth.

By organization size, Large enterprises to account for a higher market share during the forecast period

Large enterprises are defined as companies with having an employee strength of more than 1,000. In the smart shelves market, large-scale retailers, supermarkets, and hypermarkets with multinational presence have been considered as large enterprises. Real-time inventory insights, check and update customer buying behavior, pricing management, and assistance to the retailer in optimizing store operations is provided by Smart shelves. Walmart, Kroger, and Walgreens, among others are the large retailers who have already adopted ESLs, sensors, RFID tags, and readers in their outlets in the US, Canada, and European nations.

By application, pricing management to grow at the highest CAGR during the forecast period

Emergence of hyper-connected consumers and aggressive competition are driving the need for price management. Retailers deploy a pricing strategy as they are constantly looking for the fair price of a product rather than a low price and are connected to several channels of distribution at a single time. The increasing demand for goods has resulted in the establishment of always-on channels that can cater to the high demand and reduce opportunity loss. Dynamic pricing has been used by gas stations and disruptive vendors. price management has become increasingly important for the retailers to check on the competitive pricing displayed on the shelf, thereby enabling the consumers to make an informed decision while comparing prices. The retailers can take advantage of the price optimization strategy by using automation to manage the pricing and demand efficiently.
