Abstracts

The strategic shift toward social media security due to the increasing adoption of enterprise social media and the need for organizations to secure their social media platforms and networks against malicious attacks and threats are the factors that are driving the social media security market.

The global social media security market size is expected to grow from USD 895.6 million in 2018 to USD 1,970.6 million by 2023, at a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 17.1% during the forecast period. The market is driven by a strategic shift toward social media security, due to the increasing sophistication level of attacks on enterprise social media platforms, rising need to manage stringent regulations and compliances, and increasing use of social media by employees in the organization both for businesses, as well as personal purposes. However, data privacy constraints and the lack of common laws across countries and cross-boundary location of servers may restrain the social media security market growth.

The monitoring segment is expected to account for the largest market size during the forecast period in the social media security market.

The monitoring segment is expected to account for the largest market size during the forecast period. Monitoring solutions help enterprises to identify and track the social media activity of their employees, as well as individuals across various social media platforms. These solutions would help companies identify the potential threats and vulnerabilities and take the necessary action against these threats. This process enables companies to identify the malignant activity, which includes defamation of organizations brand and data theft, thus assisting in taking precedent steps to avoid them.

The large enterprises segment is expected to hold a larger market size during the forecast period.

The large enterprises segment is expected to hold a larger market size in the social media security market during the forecast period. Large enterprises are the early adopters of social media security solutions and associated services. Though large enterprises have the necessary budgets, the adoption would be hindered partially, due to the growing data privacy concerns in organizations. However, due to the rising Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) trend among these organizations, there is an unprecedented growth of social media use by employees in organizations for business and personal purposes, and it is inevitable for these enterprises to overlook the potentiality of these platforms as a mode for communication and customer experience purposes. Hence, they are adopting social media security solutions on a large scale to counter any attacks on their social media platforms.

North America is expected to account for the largest market share, whereas Asia Pacific is projected to grow at the highest CAGR.

North America is estimated to hold the largest market size and dominate the global social media security market, in 2018. The increasing penetration of enterprise social media and the security challenges associated with it includes compliance management, along with meeting strict compliance regulations are pushing organizations in North America to adopt social media security solutions. Asia Pacific (APAC) offers growth opportunities for the major vendors in the social media security market, as countries in this region have huge social media user base, and there is a drastic increase in the adoption of social media platforms for business purposes by organizations in this region.
