Abstracts

The global stem cell therapy market is projected to reach USD 615 million by 2028 from USD 286 million in 2023, at a CAGR of 16.5% during the forecast period. Key market players are focusing on developing new stem cell therapies for various disease conditions this is one of the major factor is likely to impact the market growth in coming years. The increasing number of clinical trials has largely in past few years coupled with rise in FDA approvals for stem cell therapy is anticipated to give momentum to the market growth.

“The allogeneic stem cell segment accounted dominant share in 2022”

The stem cell therapy market is segmented into allogeneic and autologous. Allogeneic segment accounted for the dominant share in 2022. In allogeneic stem cell therapy, one cell source can produce numerous doses, thus making allogeneic therapy economically viable and less time-consuming, these are some of the major elements responsible for the doninat share of the segment. Presently, more than ten approved commercialized allogeneic stem cell therapies are available globally.

“Bone Marrow-derived MSCs segment is anticipated to grow at significant CAGR”

Based on the cell source the global stem cell therapy market is segmented into adipose tissue-derived MSCs, bone marrow-derived MSCs, placenta/umbilical cord-derived MSCs, and other cell sources. In 2022, the adipose tissue-derived MSCs segment gained dominant share in the stem cell therapy market. Bone marrow-derived mesenchymal stem cells most preferred type for are stem cell therapies. Easy availability of Bone marrow MSCs and less time required for in-vitro processing are some of the major factors likely to give momentum to the use of bone marrow derived MSCs uplifting the segmental growth.

“Asia Pacific region is likely to grow at a faster pace.”

The stem cell therapy market is segmented into North America, Europe, Asia Pacific and Rest of the world. Asia Pacific region is anticipated to grow at a significant CAGR during the forecast period. Rising approvals from the government for stem cell therapy in South Korea. Furthermore, industrial collaborations in the region for stem cell therapy development is further likely to give pace for the market growth in the region. For instance, Reyon Pharmaceutical and Therabest entered into a joint development agreement for NK cell therapy for treating solid cancer. Under this agreement, the two companies will jointly develop iPSC (induced pluripotent stem cell)-derived NK cell therapy ‘TB-100’ for solid cancer indications.
