Abstracts

“The need for a single UEM solution that can manage traditional and non-traditional endpoints is one of the most significant factors projected to drive the growth of the unified endpoint management market.”

The unified endpoint management market is estimated to be USD 1.40 billion in 2017 and is projected to reach USD 7.06 billion by 2022, at a CAGR of 38.2% during the forecast period. This growth can be attributed to the need to ensure data security in enterprises. However, high cost of deploying UEM solutions is acting as a restraint to the growth of the unified endpoint management market.

“Based on type, the solutions segment is estimated to lead the unified endpoint management market in 2017.”

Based on type, the solutions segment is estimated to lead the unified endpoint management market in 2017. The management of several traditional and non-traditional endpoints becomes a critical challenge for enterprises. Thus, enterprises are engaged in the adoption of UEM solutions to enhance performance, adhere to compliance requirements, and reduce security risks and costs.

“Based on organization size, the large enterprises segment is estimated to lead the unified endpoint management market in 2017.”

Based on organization size, the large enterprises segment is estimated to lead the unified endpoint management market in 2017. Large enterprises are adopting UEM solutions to reduce operational costs, secure endpoint configurations, and reduce the risk of cyber-attacks.

“The unified endpoint management market in the Asia Pacific region is expected to grow at the highest CAGR during the forecast period.”

Based on region, the unified endpoint management market has been segmented into North America, Europe, Asia Pacific, the Middle East & Africa, and Latin America. The rising trend of BYOD is one of the most significant factors projected to drive the growth of the unified endpoint management market in the Asia Pacific region.

In-depth interviews were conducted with Chief Executive Officers (CEOs), marketing directors, innovation and technology directors, and executives from various organizations operating in the unified endpoint management market.
