Abstracts

MarketsandMarkets Vendor DIVE report on mobile application security covers a detailed study of the major players offering mobile application security solutions. The major 10 vendors in mobile application security were analyzed on the basis of their product offering and business strategy. The vendors were shortlisted based on their solution capabilities, technology innovations, and breadth of product offering.

The report will help the stakeholders such as application security vendors, technology partners, system integrators, distributors, and value added resellers to make business strategies and decisions on the deployment of mobile application security solutions.

Mobile application security involves scanning the mobile applications for vulnerabilities and identifying and preventing gaps in the security policy of the applications. This includes source code review, behavioral analysis, risk analysis, and identification of vulnerability patterns for threat prevention.
