Abstracts

Tenpay is the exclusive online payments provider of Tencent, one of the largest and most powerful internet companies in China today. Tencent's service reach includes instant messaging, gaming, blogs, and various wireless value-added services branded under the "QQ" name; also included in the Group's umbrella of companies is an eBay-like online marketplace called Paipai. Tenpay provides an online payment platform for all of these services. With over over 26 million users, Tenpay easily ranks them among the leading third-party payment companies in China.

Key Topics Covered

Tenpay is an integral part of Tencent and its main purpose is to facilitate online payments for the Tencent Group.

As a stand-alone company, Tenpay has yet to prove it has a viable business model, as revenues and profitability are being sacrificed for the success of Tencent and its subsidiaries.

Tenpay has a fast-growing registered user base currently standing at 26 million, and has direct and exclusive access to serve the payment needs of Tencent's 300 million active users.
