About

The report brings to your attention profound analysis of tantalum market in Rwanda. Historical, present and future trends are covered. Experts' opinions and estimations are provided.

Rwanda is one of the world's largest producers of tin, tantalum, and tungsten (3Ts)

efforts are made to help small scale Rwandan mining operators to access international markets for minerals on favorable terms (not through agents) at present, Rwanda internal tantalum demand is insignificant but situation is likely to change in the near future as new processing capacities are being constructed besides already announced ones, some other projects may be initiated in the coming years what will result in Rwanda being the exporter of not only raw material but finished products as well.
