Abstracts

After the easing of COVID-19, global desktop PC shipments are anticipated to see a decline in 2023. However, driven by the growth of gaming desktop PCs in the gaming market, global gaming desktop PC shipments are expected to stabilize this year, up 0.8% year-on-year. Gaming desktop PCs now account for 12.1% of the overall desktop PC market. This report provides an overview of the gaming desktop PC market and its shipment volume forecast for the period 2023-2024; looks into the development of key components in gaming desktop PCs provided by Nvidia, AMD, Intel, etc., and examines key issues and development trends in the gaming desktop PC market.
