Abstracts

The door lock is used every time people enter and leave the house. With the popularity of smartphones, more and more manufacturers are devoted to developing smart locks, which enable users to operate a door lock with a smartphone app. Evolving from traditional digital keyboard or electromagnetic induction, smart locks now allow people to unlock the door automatically and hands-free. This report analyzes the development of innovative applications in smart locks mainly from Nuki, Teodoor, U-Tec, and August, with an aim to identify their development trends and market opportunities.
