Abstracts

The global server market in 2023 has been influenced by decreased orders from US and Chinese server customers. Despite the introduction of new servers featuring Intel and AMD processors, as well as the impact of AI server demand driven by ChatGPT, the overall shipment growth for 2023 is anticipated to experience a decline, while maintaining a modest level of growth. This report provides an overview of the global server market and a market volume forecast for the period 2023-2027; examines development highlights of the server industry, including ChatGPT, and industry supply chains; and explores development opportunities in the future server industry.
