Abstracts

Barium Octoate is a metallic salt used as an auxiliary drier for oil and alkyd-based products as substitute to lead. Although it exhibits poor performance when used on its own, it promotes the activity of through drier. As it is adsorbed by the drier adsorbing pigments, it serves as an excellent wetting and dispersing agent especially at severe weather conditions. The paints with barium as auxiliary driers show better gloss and minimized loss-of-dry. Barium driers are used in conjunction with surface driers such as cobalt and manganese.
